

"IF A DOG IS DOING SOMETHING YOU DON'T LIKE, IT NEEDS SOMETHING YOU ARE NOT PROVIDING"

Training is essential for every dog to become a happy, balanced, and well-behaved member of your family. Training together not only creates a positive bond, it increases sociability, can curb future negative behaviors, and teaches your pup life skills - yes, they need those too! The following is a list of trainers and behaviorists that have come highly recommended by friends and past adopters, and some we have worked with personally too.

As an organization, we only advocate positive reinforcement training and do not advocate the use of "balanced" or "adverse consequence" training, including devices such as e-collars, pinch and choke collars, and similar. If you have gone the route with positive reinforcement training, and are having ongoing issues, please circle back to SPR so we can redirect you to a behaviorist or training specialist. If you don't see a referral near you listed, let us know and we will find you options!

Whether you're getting ready for your pup to come home, or waiting for the first session with your trainer, this website is chockfull of all sorts of information to get you off on the right foot: <https://positively.com>. This <https://www.thefamilydog.com/families/> is essential for families along with their <https://www.thefamilydog.com/stop-the-77/> video which is a quick and important watch for the entire family, even your kiddos!
